A three-way partnership, ran from our head office in Sweden to Chilas District and back again. On Sunday, 10 April 2014, the health of a Thai expedition member was in serious danger. The accident occurred on the night between Wednesday to Thursday when Uwe, aka Fullja, and his two colleagues were camping out in Chilas. Uwe, aged 37, runs Jungle Medical Services which provides trekking and adventure tours. He is originally from Sweden but since a few years now has lived and worked in Thailand as a freelance Thai-Swede project leader and teacher in the field of Thai culture, Thai language and adventure tourism. Expedition Undertaken We had paid Jungle Medical Services to conduct a rickshaw-based rescue mission. There had been an unfortunate incident where a tree trunk fell down during a thunderstorm and a foreign team was seriously injured. The relatives of the injured person managed to get a rickshaw from the settlement where the injury had taken place. It was now nighttime and the local police started closing down the settlement for the night. They urged the travelers to return to Chilas to get a better place to spend the night. It would be a difficult undertaking for the travelers to hike back to Chilas from where they started; a total of 19 kilometers. Uwe then offered to take the people back to Chilas and provided himself to carry the injured man. The driver wanted a payment to take them to the settlement. Uwe, who had engaged a driver the same night the accident had taken place and paid him in advance, still had the money on him. He immediately offered to give the payment to the driver. Uwe was grateful for the offer and the driver headed out immediately. Where to

Q: Chaining Assignments in Matlab Function
Given a function $f(x)$ such that $x = \text{linspace}(0, 2\pi)$. I have written the function as

function [f,g] = f(x)
f = x(1)+sin(x(2));
g = x(1)+x(2);
end

Now, I want to assign $x = f(x)$. So I write $x = f(x)$ But I get an error, since x is a function. I tried $(x=f(x))$ But this does not work. I also tried $x = f(x)$ But this gives an error. How can I assign this?
Edit Thanks everyone for the swift response. I ran into the same problem again when a function has no arguments.

function [f,g] = f(x)
f = x;
g = x(1)+x(2);
end
```

When I run this function I get an error. Can you help?
A: You have to pass x to your function. You could write

x=linspace(0
